Dear colleagues,

Never before has a new technique changed the field of ultrasound in such a revolutionary way like the use of ultrasound contrast media. The International CEUS Course is aiming at two goals: Understanding the basics of CEUS, US machines and settings and secondly deepening the understanding the benefit of using contrast agents in hepatic and extrahepatic diseases.

A renowned national and international faculty, well known for their extensive experience and contributions in CEUS, will give the participants a wealth of practical knowledge that can be used immediately in their practice. Didactic lectures covering all the primary applications and the latest scientific research will be reinforced with hands-on training or interactive case reviews during the workshops.

During this course there will be again time for individual training on the US machines and to work on clinical cases – from easy to difficult ones to interpret. Additionally representatives from the industry will inform you on the pre-course day you about latest and future technical developments, followed by hands on sessions on the latest US devices.

We hope you will benefit from attending this course -a European School project- which again is supported by the EFSUMB.

We wish you a successful educational course and a joyful stay in Munich
